WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues and Esteemed Participants,

It is my great pleasure and privilege to welcome you all to the BPKIHS Critical Care Conclave 2026, hosted by the Department of Pulmonary, Critical Care and Sleep Medicine. This gathering represents not only an academic event, but a shared commitment to advancing the science and practice of critical care in our region and beyond.

Critical care medicine continues to evolve at an extraordinary pace, driven by emerging evidence, technological innovation, and a deeper understanding of complex pathophysiology. In such a dynamic landscape, platforms like this conclave are essential—not merely to disseminate knowledge, but to challenge existing paradigms, encourage critical thinking, and foster meaningful collaboration among clinicians, educators, and researchers.

The conclave begins on June 4th with a focused workshop on Basic Mechanical Ventilation. Mechanical ventilation remains a cornerstone of intensive care; thus, this workshop is designed to bridge foundational concepts with bedside applicability, ensuring participants leave with both confidence and competence. The scientific sessions from 5th – 6th June will explore a wide spectrum – from sepsis and ARDS to hemodynamic strategies, antimicrobial stewardship, and emerging technologies. The program aims to strike a balance between evidence-based practice and real-world challenges—particularly in resource-variable settings like ours. We have curated a distinguished faculty whose expertise and insights will undoubtedly enrich the academic discourse.

Beyond lectures and discussions, this conclave is also an opportunity—to reconnect with colleagues, to build new professional relationships, and to collectively reflect on how we can improve patient outcomes in our own institutions. The exchange of ideas in such forums often plants the seeds for innovation and long-term collaboration.

I extend my sincere gratitude to all faculty members, participants, organizers, and supporting teams whose efforts have made this event possible. I encourage you to participate actively, question thoughtfully, and take full advantage of the learning opportunities over these three days.

Wishing you a productive, insightful, and inspiring conclave.
